The ‘Information Superhighway’, or the Internet, is a (1) power / empower / powerful medium for today’s information driven society. From its humble beginnings as (2) the / a / - series of networks established to help the military and government share resources, it has become a (3) place / market / arena for people to engage in commerce, business and personal facilities. Yet, there has (4) risen / raised / arisen a series of problems.

The Internet, because of its modern nature is not really (5) well / good / nice dealt with when it comes to (6) exist / existence / existing ethical and moral issues. The Internet has fostered a new (7) class / group / team of community that requires a unique category of moral values and ethical considerations. Things are always going to be dealt with (8) different / differently / indifferently when it comes to any revolutionary type of medium. How can interstate trade be regulated by the federal government when it is (9) electronic / electronical / electronically transferred information?

Last year, for instance, a law firm caused a major uproar (10) with / by / through posting an ad for its services on 6,000 Usenet newsgroups. That kind of activity, known as “spamming”, just isn’t done. Companies should convey their messages (11) unselectively / inselectively / selectively and (12) inappropriately / unappropriately / appropriately. There is little legislation which protects children and (13) person / personnel / personal safety that governs society’s (14) relationships / relations / relation. The solutions to any problems with the internet are so complex that any legislation that could ensue might threaten to (15) infringe / unfringe / defringe upon the rights and privileges that people enjoy today.
